The Weekly Review screen displays the coaching sessions that have been assigned based on your driving behavior in the past week. The system analyzes your driving behavior and assigns three alert videos that will help you understand the areas in which you need improvement.

The Weekly Review screen provides details on how these alerts impact your GreenZone score and what your score could have been if these alerts were not generated.

If you have any DriverStar generated over the week, it is also included as part of Weekly Review Session.

Note:

Weekly review sessions are generated by the Driver.i Virtual Coaching system. These sessions are triggered every Monday and they include the previous week's information for the driver.

Criteria for Weekly Review Sessions

Weekly Review Sessions are created based on the following criteria:

- The video should be available for the Alert.
- Weekly Review Sessions are created only for Speeding Violations, Following Distance, Sign Violations, Driver Distraction, and Traffic Light Violations Alerts.
- Weekly Review Sessions are created only for Severe Alerts.
- A single alert alone is not sufficient to create a Weekly Review Session. There must be at least two alerts of the same type. For example, there must be two Severe Speeding Violations alerts for a Weekly Review Session to be created for this alert.
- The Drive time requirement for that week must be met.

Weekly Review Session Notification

When you receive a notification of a Weekly Review session you must complete it in seven days. You must watch all the alert videos assigned to understand and improve your driving behavior. The system automatically marks the session as completed after you have watched the alert videos. Once the coaching has been completed, you will receive a notification of the completed weekly review session.
